Product Description

SabreFix LF is a gun-grade, high-quality polyurethane expansion foam, with a unique low post expansion formula, lowering pressure on joint sides. The pressure on joint sides is two times lower than with regular PU foams. SabreFix LF has a very homogeneous dense structure and minimum post-expansion. It has good resistance to moisture and mould and achieves great results at low temperatures. The foam has very high adhesion properties and adheres well to most construction materials. The cured foam is an excellent temperature and sound insulator.

Scope Of Use

The Low Expansion foam is especially suitable for use in fragile and pressure-sensitive structures. Used as an air seal around doors and windows, filling holes and gaps as well as for sound and thermal insulation.
